Legal nature of Lykke Coins Purchase

The purchase and sale of Lykke Coins qualifies as a forward contract between Lykke Corp and the investor, creating for the investor the obligation to purchase and for Lykke Corp the obligation to sell a certain amount (“nominal”) of Lykke Shares (“base value”) at a certain price (“forward price”) payable in advance.

While regular forward contracts will run for a predefined timespan (30 days from conclusion of contract, e.g.) and settle at the end of that timespan (“date of settlement”), the Lykke forward contract is at the run. Being at the run means, there is an initial trading period that doesn’t trigger the time clock of the forward contract (e.g. 30 days), followed by the forward period. The forward period starts with the trigger event, which is the coin holder’s declaration of intent to receive the base value (the Lykke Shares). The owner of the Lykke Coin can pull the trigger at any time.

For information on sales and distribution restrictions, be sure to read section G of the Offering Memorandum.
